Local Guardsmen In Large Scale March With Neighboring Units

By Lloyd Albertson

Another in its series of week-end drill periods will be held by Battery C, 649th Anti-aircraft Artillery Battalion on Sunday, April 12, and advance plans call for the local guardsmen to participate in a large-scale motor march with other units of the Battalion from Taylor, Belton and Temple.

Members of Battery C are scheduled to join a convoy from Temple when it passes the Armory here in Cameron about 10:50 Sunday morning. The motor march will include a swing around a loop through Milano, Rockdale, Taylor, Bartlett, Holland and Temple. A stop will be made at noon near the new sub-divisions south of Rockdale, where lunch will be served by Battalion mess details in the field. During the movement the guardsmen will engage in tactical problems in defense against a simulated enemy air and mechanized attack. and also in the use of anti-aircraft artillery weapons against enemy road-blocks.

Although the training period is called a motor march, all guardsmen will ride in jeeps, trucks and half-tracks.

Another recent development in Battery C was the enlistment of four more young men in the organization, and the re-enlistment of two guardsmen. They were Stanley R. Glaser, a cotton oil gin employee, Louis A. Krenek, a student, Marvin A. Deido, an electrical shop employee, and James P. Reichert, employed by Lone Star Gas Company.

Re-enlisting were Sgt. Edward R. Brantley and Robert Stanislaw. Brantley is employed by a local grocery and ice station, and Stanislaw is employed at Alcoa.

Representative For The Social Security Administration Due

During April a representative of the Social Security Administration will visit Cameron on April 14, 1953 at 1:00 p. m. according to James B. Marley, manager of the Austin, exas office. He will be at the Department of Public Welfare at the time specified to give information and service in connection with all phases of the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program.

The Austin office is particularly desirous of contacting those salaried and self-employed people who are thinking of retiring this year and claiming their benefits on the basis of their work and earnngs since January 1, 1951. The office explains that technicalities in the law make it advisable for all such workers to obtain full information about their individual cases in order to satisfy themselves as to the most advantageous time for filing their application.

77 Right-Of-Way Being Cleared At Lott

Right-of-way is being cleared at Lott for a projected continuation through that city of improvements made some time ago on Highway 77 from Rosebud to Burlington, a 24-foot hot mix asphalt pavement.

The Lott project was on a previous construction program, but was delayed because right-of-way was not obtained. Now it is being cleared and it is probable that State Highway Department will revive the project.

Surveys are being made of Highway 77 from Golinda to Burleson with a view of relocation, widening, and paving of that section of Highway 77; but it is not yet on any state highway program. Surveys on this project have been under way for some time. but it was held up because right-of-way was not being sought. Now Falls County is buying right-of-way and the state is preparing right-of-way maps. This raises the probability that 77 from Golinda to Burlington will be on a project, possibly in the next year or so.

The Newton Memorial Hospital admitted Lily Winston of Cameron April 8 for medical treatment.

According to Highway Patrolmen investigating the accident Miss Mode was absolved of all the blame. She was returning from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Norma Webb, of Baton Rouge.

In announcing the plans for the clean-up campaign, Goodrich said that it is imperative that immediate steps be taken to clean up the trash and breeding places for flies and mosquitoes. He said that the mild winter is responsible for the heavy population of the insects and that immediately after the people of the city have finished cleaning up their premises, the town would be fogged with the fogging machine.

The campaign will be conducted on the same basis that it was last year. Each property owner and tenant will be expected to clean up the premises and city trucks will come on designated days and pick up the trash. Charges were filed Wednesday against Johnie Edward Williams and Sidney Bates Harle, both of Houston, for the almost fantastic theft of a juke box from the Milano Cafe. The bulky Seeburg music machine was taken from the cafe owned by J. L. Hayman Sunday night.

According to County Attorney Jim Miller, Williams and Harle were arrested by Houston police when the machine was discovered in their establishment. They are free lance operators dealing in this type of machine.

The two accused told that the machine had been left in their shop for repair by a man they could not describe too well. They claimed that the machine was brought to them in a pick-up truck but could not recall the make or the name of the truck.

However, after hearing their story, Houston police found that the serial numbers had been ground from the machine and that dies were then in place to put new numbers on it.

Williams and Harle were returned to Milam County Tuesday night by Sheriff Carl Black where they were charged with theft and burglary. Bond was set and the two were released.

Poultry Review

Second in Series

Many local business people are looking for a "little place in the country" for diversion and additional use of their capital. A 2,000 to 2,500 cage egg factory is the ideal solution. Since one family can operate it, the help problem is easily solved. A plant of this size can be operated on two acres, so the land cost is very inexpensive.

Farmers will find an egg factory an ideal addition for more cash income. In most cases, a 1,000-bird flock can be maintaned without any extra help. The work is so light and easy that the wife or teen-age children can do most of it while field work is heavy.

Poultrymen and women who now are keeping chickens for a living usually will find that cages provide a more profitable and more pleasant way to care for them.

Folks who work at a regular occupation in schools, at desks or in stores and factories can add thousands of dollars a year to their incomes with cage egg factories as a sideline. For example, both Professor King and Mr. Goodman at Alabama Polytechnic Institute have caged birds at home. One has 500 cages, the other 1,000.

Many Purina Dealers and their employees have seen the profits to be made in cage egg factories and are now making the extra money.

Some teachers and town workers start their cage plants while still employed. When they have a 1,000 hen unit in production, they resign and spend full time in the egg business. Usually they build to 2,000-hen capacity.

Many folks who retire look for a small country operation to keep up their income and give them something interesting to do. Caged hens offer an ideal money-making enterprise that older people can handle.

Cage operation has several very definite advantages over keeping chickens in the usual way. These advantages were first discovered in Hawaii and were quickly learned in southern California, where cages have been used for about 10 years. It is estimated that 90% of all new construction in the counties around Los Angeles since 1945 has been in cage units. Let's see why cages have become so popular.

At average prices for feed and other operating costs and for eggs sold in 1952, good poultry keepers should expect the following profits. These include all expenses except labor:

Floor operation - profit per hen above operating costs $2.50 to $3.00.

Cage operation - profit per cage above operating costs $4.00 to $5.00.

This is the real reason why caged hens make more money. Each hen has a separate basket for her egg, so you can check her each day. As soon as she drops below 50% production, out she goes and a new bird takes her place. So you never feed un-productive free "boarders." What's more, with this positive culling system, you take out and sell hens before they begin to go down in condition. Thus you are able to realize good prices for culls.

Most good floor operators get from 180 to 200 eggs per hen yearly. Cage owners should get from 225 to 240 eggs per cage. To maintain this production hens must be culled and replaced during the year. Most cage operators figure that an over-dressed cull sells for just about enough to pay for her replacement. There should be no loss at all with heavy breeds such as Rhode Island Reds or Black Crosses. The loss on Leghorns often runs from 25c to 50c per bird, but a greater loss is incurred when floorkept hens are sold.

Herald Office Receives Booklet Distributed By Communist Party

The distribution in Texas of the much publicized pamphlet written by the Communist Party is evidently much wider than has been indicated in news releases to date.

From the fact that we received one this morning at the HERALD office, postmarked Houston, it is taken for granted that they are being distributed to all weekly papers in the state.

The pamphlet is entitled, "The Southern People's Common Program for Democracy, Prosperity and Peace." It came to us in a plain envelope and was addressed to the Managing Editor. It was issued by the Southern Regional Committee of the Communist Party, USA, 268 Seventh Ave., New York 1, N. Y. It was printed in the USA and marked with a union label.

The booklet is very openly aimed at causing dissention in the South. It claims that Southerners have the poorest education, the worst housing and health facilities, and the lowest income in the nation.

The cutworm is the larva stage of a dull-colored moth. It feeds greedily, cutting young plants off just above the soil surface or climbing up the plant to feed on the leaves. Most varieties feed only at night, hiding during the day in the soil.

Thrips . . . universal pest, responsible for extensive damage to cotton in early season. Usually about 1/25 of an inch long, they are slender, active bugs, pointed at both ends and varying in color from light yellow to almost black.

IMPORTANCE OF EARLY-SEASON COTTON INSECT CONTROL

Cutworms, thrips, fleahoppers, grasshoppers and first generation boll weevils are ready and waiting to start early-season feeding on your cotton. Blasted buds, scarred leaves and punctured squares give evidence of the serious damage they inflict while feeding on the young crop . . . damage that gives you poor quality seed and fiber . . . greatly reduced profits. So it makes good sense to start control now and avoid this damage.

Watch for these signs:

1. Cutworms are at work if you find plant leaves eaten and the stems of young plants severed at or near the surface of the soil.
2. Thrips are at work if the leaves of the young cotton appear cup-shaped or scarred and plants are severely stunted.
3. Fleahoppers are at work if new squares and terminal buds have been pierced, causing them to drop. Fleahoppers prevent setting of squares and result in tall, gangly cotton with few fruiting branches.
4. Boll weevil is at work when squares flare, wither and dry, hang limp or fall to the ground.
5. Grasshoppers are at work if the familiar pattern of ragged leaves and plant destruction is present.

How to control these pests

Dieldrin deals these early-season insects a knockout blow. Its long residual action has full lethal effect days after application. At recommended dosages—just an ounce or two per acre—dieldrin is the insecticide least harmful to beneficial insects. As a dust, dieldrin is smooth-textured and free-flowing. As a spray, dieldrin forms top-creaming emulsions...eliminates nozzle clogging.

Where to get dieldrin

Your insecticide dealer handles dieldrin and will be glad to recommend the proper treatment best suited for your particular insect problem . . . or ask your county agent. The important thing, though, is to act early.

TEXAN PARADE

ESCAPES FROM INDIANS WERE OFTEN MIRACULOUS

Frontier Texans were notably ingenious at escaping from hostile Indians. In this art grim necessity was the mother of many life-saving inventions.

Duval, in "Early Times in Texas," repeats the story of a salty old scout and hunter called "Uncle Seth," who, while skinning a deer one day about four miles from a surveyor's camp, was jumped by a band of Indians. Uncle Seth leaped onto his horse, which was a good sprinter. But after about a mile the Indians started gaining on him. As he said, he had to out-smart them on what they thought they knew about white men. He raced to a thicket, jumped off his horse, tied him to a bush at the edge, ran through the thicket and on to camp on foot. The Indians, always cautious about crowding a man they could not see, doubtless assumed that their intended victim was hidden there with a bead drawn on the nearest Indian. Uncle Seth returned for his horse with a party. Moccasin tracks were thick around the thicket but none within fifty yards of the horse.

Big Foot Wallace told of a writer, uninitiated in the ways of the frontier, travelling with his party, who, at the last moment, saved his life by his wits. He whipped a whole band of Indians with a "weapon" he had been carrying which had made him the joke of the party—an umbrella. Just as his horse was winded, and the savages were literally breathing down his neck, he wheeled his horse, pulled his umbrella from behind his saddle and flopped it open right in the eyes of the Indians' horses. They stopped as if frozen for a second. Then they wheeled and stampeded in the direction from whence they came. And nothing the Indians could do would turn them—if, indeed, the Indians actually wanted to turn them. The tenderfoot rode into camp at his leisure.

One white captive, allowed to go hunting with his captors, made a practice of getting "lost," and staying lost for progressively longer periods each time until he was able to get a sufficient start on the Indians to stay "lost."

Claiborne Orsburn in 1840 had a strange and terrible escape. He was stunned by a blow from Indians, and scalped. He regained consciousness to hear two Indians in an argument. He played dead. It happened that Orsburn had a double crown on his head, and in as much as the scalp included but one of them the Indians were violently discussing the point of taking the other also. Orsburn sprang to his feet and ran. Before the Indians could overhaul him a rescue party appeared. And the Indians had to content themselves with the single crown. Orsburn lived to a ripe old age in Bastrop County.

Of course, the white man did not always win. But whether it was a scheme that worked or failed, the frontiersman, in the presence of hostile Indians, usually thought of something—pretty fast.

1952 Automobile Accident Toll In Nation Released

More than two million casualties, the worst automobile accident toll in the nation's history, were recorded in 1952, according to figures released by the Travelers Insurance Companies in Hartford, Conn.

Last year's traffic deaths totaled 37,600, an increase of 500 over the 1951 mark. The injury count soared to 2,090,000, more than 127,000 over 1951, the Hardford firm reported.

The most dangerous mistake in driving last year was excessive speed. Speed killed 13,430 persons and injured nearly 600,000, according to the report. Drivers under 25 years old were involved in almost 25 per cent of the year's fatal accidents although they constitute only about 15 per cent of the total of all drivers.

More than 15,000 persons were killed and nearly 750,000 hurt in weekend crashes in 1952. Forty per cent of the deaths and 3* per cent of the injuries occurred on Saturdays and Sundays last year.

The Cameron Herald
THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1953

It was the second consecutive year of improvement in the pedestrian record. Figures from the booklet show that pedestrian casualties were reduced by more than eight per cent in 1952. Crossing between intersections, "jay walking," still is the chief cause of pedestrian deaths and injuries.

32% Jump in Volume Makes Price Cut Possible!
DETROIT: In announcing lower truck and car prices, L. L. Colbert, president of Chrysler Corporation (builders of Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks) said:
"Since the first of this year, Chrysler Corporation has built 32% more automobiles and trucks than we were able to turn out in the corresponding period last year under government controls. With the spring selling season just beginning . . . our dealers are already setting a pace more than 50% ahead of last year.
"We are very pleased that we can take this action so shortly after the new administration's prompt ending of price controls and restoring to the automobile industry freedom to build the cars and trucks for which materials can be obtained in a free competitive market.
"These lower prices indicate Chrysler Corporation's confidence in the wholesome effects of these moves.
"Now that higher volume is being achieved and we may reasonably expect it to continue, we are lowering prices accordingly."

A Good Neighbor

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Chip Pulls a "Pip"

Chip Hanson is a clever commercial artist. Beside doing cartoons on our paper, he picks up "free lance" drawing jobs.

Right now he's whipping up posters for the Safety Campaign. They all have headlines like "PLAY IT SAFE!". . . or, "A LIVE WIRE CAN START A FIRE!"

Chip looked a bit sheepish yesterday. Didn't want to tell me why. Finally he blurted out, "I feel like a dope. Here I am on this safety program and the fire inspectors tell me my own studio's a fire trap. I've been storing paint there for years . . ."

From where I sit, what happened to Chip could happen to anyone. He was just too busy informing everyone else about safety — not realizing his safety was threatened. Like those who fret about their neighbors — whether they can afford a new house, whether they should have coffee or a glass of beer with lunch — Chip simply forgot to "draw" some obvious conclusions about himself!

15 People for Dinner

A farmer today has to feed himself and fifteen other people. Back in 1930 he had to supply food for 11 other people. By 1975, experts predict, for each farmer there may be 25 at the dinner table.

It would be nice if there were more land. But last year there was only 1% more land under cultivation than prewar.

What's more, there are fewer farmers. 17% fewer man-hours were spent in agriculture last year.

Yet the farmer in 1952, with less help and about the same acreage, managed to produce 40% more livestock, vegetables, cotton, grain, milk than before the war.

Who helps the American farmer in a spot like that?

Electricity for one thing, and of course, more tractors, trucks, farm machinery, pesticides, chemical fertilizers, and a lot more.

One big clue to productivity is his increased use of electricity. Farmers today use 500% more electric power than in 1940.

Electricity pumps water, dries hay, keeps chicks warm, grinds feed, milks cows. In fact, the "electrical hired man" can do more than 400 farm jobs.

But the important thing is that there need be no empty plates tonight, and that this was done in a typically American way.

Many people and many companies, General Electric among them, developed labor-saving ideas and products. The best were tried and chosen. They have helped to make the American farmer the most productive in the world.

You can put your confidence in—

Ray Milland As 'The Thief' In Era's First No-Dialogue Film

Unique, unusual, different are adjectives that have been used until they became meaningless in attempts to stimulate interest in new motion pictures. So at first glance it would seem hazardous to describe the new United Artists release of "The Thief," a Harry M. Popkin production which was produced by Clarence Greene and directed by Russell Rouse, in those terms. Yet anyone must agree that when a picture is released which uses not one line of dialogue to tell its story (and this after more than a quarter of a century since movies became talkies), that picture is unique, unusual and different.

The original concept of a story told entirely in terms of action and reaction without dialogue occurred to Clarence Greene and Russell Rouse while they were on location shooting "The Well," a picture which brought them many honors and awards.

"The Thief," which stars Ray Milland and will have its first local debut this April 12 at the 77 Drive-In Theatre, was expressly designed and written to fall within the limits of its dialogless framework. As the co-authors of the screenplay emphasize, not every story can be told in the same manner. Lack of dialogue definitely does not mean lack of action. On the contrary, "The Thief" is able to pack more action in its telling because at no point is it slowed down by talk. The action has to do the "talking." The suspense-packed story concerns the panic-stricken flight of a prominent scientist after the FBI discovers that he has been supplying atomic secrets to a group of foreign agents. His anguish and the hair-raising pursuit of the FBI make for screen excitement that "words" cannot describe.

26 Texans To Run In Sports Car Races April 12 At AFB, Austin

Twenty-six Texans will pit their exotic little machines against the nation's best racing drivers in the National Championship Sports Car Races at Bergstrom Air Force Base Sunday, April 12.

The sprawling jet base near Austin will host such hot pilots as Fred Wacker Jr., president of the Sports Car Club of America, Ernest Erickson of Chicago, Paul Gogelman of Wilmette, Ill., Lupton Rainwater of Pensacola, Fla., and Karl Brocken of Riveria Beach, Fla.

The biggest sports crowd in Texas history—an estimated 100,000—is expected to line the taxiways and runways of the jet base to watch the Jaguars, MGs, Nardis and Ferraris buzz by.

Sports car enthusiasts—Texas has plenty of them—and those just recently bitten by the bug, will see the unique, high-powered automobiles perform at 100-mile plus speeds in four events.

The races range from 75 to 200 miles in length. The first one begins at 9 a. m. and the program will be concluded at 5 p. m. Bergstrom's twisting, winding 4.02-mile course should provide more than enough thrills for the spectators.

While the sports car pilots are resting between races, the customers will be entertained with a display of jet air power, a square dance by helicopters, a beauty contest, and the appearance of many nationally-known personalities.

Besides the entertainment, seating facilities and refreshment stands featuring fried chicken or sandwiches will accommodate the visitors.

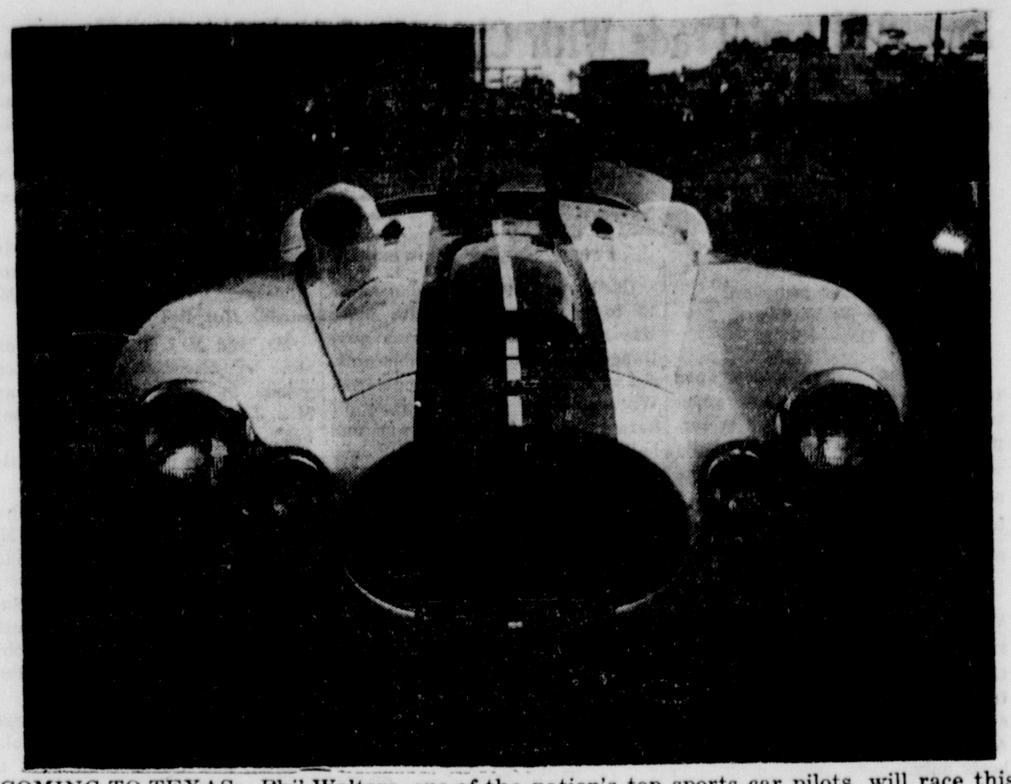
The races are jointly sponsored by Bergstrom Air Force Base and the Sports Car Club of America. Profits will go to the Airmen Improvement Fund, the Air Force Aid Society and local charities.

Sports car addicts from Texas, Mexico and points all over the United States are planning to attend. Those who won't race will drive their low-slung, thoroughbred vehicles to Austin anyway, where they'll be on display inside the air base.

The race drivers will be seeking valuable points under Sports Car Club of America rules. The points are totaled at the end of the year and a national champion named.

Trophies will be awarded to the class winners of Sunday's races—and that's about all they'll get for their time and expense. The races are strictly amateur. It's a sportman's sport.

The price of admission is $2. Children under 12 accompanied by their parents will be admitted free.



COMING TO TEXAS—Phil Walters, one of the nation's top sports car pilots, will race this sleek American-built Cunningham in the National Sports Car Races at Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin Sunday, April 12. This Cunningham creation, powered by a Chrysler engine, is the mate to the winner of the recent Collier Memorial Trophy Race at Tampa, Fla. Officials are predicting a crowd of 100,000 for the races near Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Loftin and son, Leon of San Antonio spent Easter Sunday visiting in the home of Mr. Loftin's mother and sister, Mrs. Jess Barrett and Mrs. Ben Kennon.

THE LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER SAYS EINSTEIN'S NEW THEORY MAY BE FINE FOR ALBERT, BUT NOT HIM

Editor's note: The Little River Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm at Marlow is in pretty deep water this week, but he probably lands in the shallows before his letter ends.

Dear editar:

I read in a copy of a newspaper which was wrapped around some vegetable plants my neighbor gave me yesterday, I guess it was a pretty nice gesture and I appreciate it, but givin me some plants to set out is about as neighborly as givin a man who asked for some firewood an ax, as I say, I read in this paper where Albert Einstein has come up with a new theory of the universe.

As I understand the matter, he has a new formula which explains the universe, but nobody understands the formula and as far as I'm concerned I believe I'd just as soon be baffled by the universe as baffled by a formula about the universe. If you can't understand what any women are naggin about, it doesn't make much difference which woman is doin the naggin. If I'm gonna lose a crop, I'd just as soon lose it from lack of work as lose it from insects or a hail storm.

Man has learned a whole lot about the universe in the last few hundred years, but it's mostly in the line of gadgets. I doubt if Malenkov, the new Russian dictator, has the mental capacity to make an atom bomb, but the trouble is he has the political capacity of makin atom bombs to use 'em, we might all be safer off. On the other hand, you could carry this theory too far in other directions. While it would suit me all right to have only the people capable of buildin tractors run em, I'm afraid some of my more energetic neighbors wouldn't like it. While it seems to me the least the man who invented the hoe could do is swing it himself, there are people who persist in hornin in on hoe-swingin and lawn mowin themselves.

Einstein may be able to figure out a formula that'll explain the universe satisfactorily to him, but I intend to keep on bein baffled myself. It's easier, you can do it in the shade, and you'll have a whole lot more company.

I've got a formula for runnin this farm more efficiently, but when it comes to a choice between workin or stayin baffled, I'll stay baffled.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H(Spikes of Amarillo spent several days visiting in the home of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clint Pierce at Hanover.

Mary Neil McClellen of Houston and Bryce McClellen of Baylor University spent the Easter weekend holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McClellen. Miss McClellen has completed a course in Medical Technology at Methodist Hospital in Houston and is now employed as Medical Laboratory Technician at a doctor's office there.

Worth more... and why

There's an old saying that a thing is worth what someone is willing to pay for it. Well, if you could tour the wholesale and retail used car auctions around the country, if you could survey hundreds of used car lots you would discover that used Fords bring higher prices than any competitive make—and by substantial amounts.

THAT'S WHY we feel our '53 cars should not be compared with cars in the same price range. Not because our competitors don't do a good job—obviously they do—but because we feel Ford Cars have more in common with the highest priced automobiles. The similarities are far greater than the differences.

For example. Today, the most expensive cars in this country have V-type, 8-cylinder engines. Ford Cars have had this exact same type of engine for over 20 years.

What's more astounding, the current Strato-Star V-8 sells for hundreds of dollars less than several other makers charge for a six-cylinder car. Now there's nothing wrong with a Six but they do cost less to make. Ford makes a Six—the most modern overhead valve Six in the industry. And if it's a six-cylinder car you want, Ford has it and for less money than the V-8, which is as it should be.

What about ride? Here's another Ford similarity with high-priced cars . . . Riding Comfort. One of the misconceptions for many years has been that weight—sheer weight—is what it takes to make a car ride well. Ford has found that you can make a 3000-pound car ride softer and hold the road better by far than many cars that weigh a full 1000 pounds more. In the '53 Ford, for example, front end road shock has been reduced up to 80%. We say it compares most favorably with the heaviest cars sold today.

What about automatic transmissions? It would take the fingers of both hands to count the various kinds of automatic and semi-automatic transmissions on the market today. The one we offer is called Fordomatic. It is the most versatile on the market, it represents the most profound consideration of engine-to-wheel power transfer—and that it does the best job for our engines isn't even open to question. It "shifts" better than you could shift by hand.

What you can see is also important. Here again Ford Cars lead not only in their price field but in the medium and upper brackets as well. Ford visibility is Full-Circle Visibility. This means huge, curved unobstructed glass area, front and rear, plus side windows that allow all passengers what the hotels call "room with a view."

Appearance? A higher price, of course, does not make a car more beautiful. Conversely, beauty in a Ford comes "for free." Ford has found that it costs no more to develop a beautiful car than one that is less pleasing in appearance. You can drive up to the most exclusive doorways in the world and feel perfectly at home in your Ford. Fords "belong" . . . in exactly the same social category as the finest, one-of-kind creations. After all, a Ford is a custom creation multiplied.

What about running costs? Here's one place that Ford's advantages are obvious. For oil and gas economy Ford has the big cars whipped. Ford parts cost less. Ford service charges are less. Ford tire mileage is thousands of miles greater. And, Ford depreciation is the lowest of any car on the market—bar none.

What are Fords made of? Some people have the idea that the costliest cars are made of "better stuff." It's true that some high-priced cars have costlier upholstery and fittings. What Ford has is so good, both in durability and appearance, that you probably could not tell the difference. You might even prefer it, because of its better design and more pleasing appearance.

Then there's the question of sheet metal. If you were to measure and analyze the sheet metal structure in the most expensive car, you most likely would find it identical in thickness to the corresponding panels in Ford.

After all, then, what is the difference between a Ford and the costliest cars?

In our opinion, the difference is largely a matter of dimensions, weight (and the power required to move it) plus the distinction of owning a car that not so many other people own. The desire for these things is understandable . . . and probably justified for people who are willing to pay the price to satisfy it.

As to comparing Ford with other cars in its price range, by all means do so if you wish. But, as we said before, you'll get a better picture of Ford value by comparing with cars that are most like Fords—those that are priced up to twice as much. In fact, we think you'll quickly begin comparing the other cars with Ford—because the 1953 Ford has really established the New Standard of the American Road.

Buick's First Customer — A Half Century Later

In the days when most doctors made their daily rounds in a horse and buggy, an enterprising young physician just starting his practice in Flint, Mich., purchased a "horseless carriage." It was the first car ever sold by a new maker—Buick Motor Car Co. Buick, now the fourth largest manufacturer of automobiles in the world, is observing its Golden Anniversary this year and when the city of Flint staged a "Salute to Buick," Dr. Hills, who lives in Birmingham, Mich., was present. He is shown at the wheel of an early model Buick with Ivan L. Wiles, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors.

Rogers School Child Reported Ill With Diphtheria Friday

A case of diphtherial in Rogers high school was reported Friday morning by Dr. Harry Frey, Bell county health unit director.

E. J. Daniel Jr., 15, became ill after school Thursday and physicians in Temple gave a diagnosis of diphtheria.

It was said that the youth attended classes Thursday and was in contact with students in five rooms, and was with the school baseball team in the shower room.

Dr. Frey said since the school recessed Thursday afternoon for the Easter holidays and would not resume work until Tuesday it is impossible for the health unit to give prophylactic doses of antitoxin.

"The incubation period," Dr. Frey said, "is from two to five days and unless preventive measures are taken right away the damage will be done by the time school re-convenes Tuesday."

John Cervenka, school principal, said Friday that efforts were being made to inform all parents of the diphtheria case and to advise them to consult their family physicians.

Comments From A Pastor

SALVATION

The question may be asked, "What are the benefits of salvation." A complete detailed answer to that question would be difficult undertaking.

Salvation results in so many definite changes in the life of an individual, all for the best, that the benefits are innumerable. Salvation affects every phase of one's life in this world, and the world to come.

We shall discuss briefly one's only aspect of SALVATION: That is, "DELIVERANCE."

Scripturally speaking, salvation means, "Deliverance from Sin and Death." There are three phases of deliverance from sin that we shall dwell upon.

First: Deliverance from the Guilt of Sin.

There is no deliverance from sin's guilt except by a spiritual birth through the blood of Jesus.

While living in sin, we were all guilty before God; God's judgment of death was upon us. "For the soul that sinneth it shall die." There is only one hope for the sinner: which hope is in Christ Jesus. "The blood of Jesus cleanseth us from all sin." This can be obtained only by a spiritual birth into the Family of God.

Paul said, "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh but after the Spirit," Rom. 8:1. There is no more guilt of sin in them who are in Christ Jesus. if they follow the Spirit of Christ, and mind not the things of the flesh. Thus, salvation delivers us from the guilt of sin.

Second: Salvation delivers us from the power of sin.

If we are delivered from the guilt of sin and were still under its dominating power we would be unable to maintain our innocence, and would soon find that sin's guiltiness was again hanging over our lives.

When we were servants of sin the Devil was our Master: but now being servants of righteousness, the Lord is our Master; and the will of our masters we will do.

The following quotations confirm the fact that, by salvation we are delivered from the power of sin: "The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." Rom. 8:2. The law of the Spirit of life has freed us from the law which would otherwise cause us to sin. This means that we are delivered from the power of sin. "Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal bodies that you may obey it in the lust thereof. "For sin shall not have dominion over you." "Reckon yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. In salvation we are delivered from the Power of Sin

Third: "Deliverance from the love of Sin—or the desire to sin.

Sin is of the world. And John the Apostle said, "Love not the world, neither the things that are of the world. If any man love the world that love of the Father is not in him."

Jesus said, "No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other or else he will hold to the one and despise the other." Therefore, if we love God we will hate sin; and if we hold to sin we will despise God.

The scripture says, "Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good." Which means to despise, detest, or to dislike evil. Jesus said, "The greatest commandment is; 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy Soul, heart, mind and strength.'"

If we are living in obedience to this greatest commandment, it is evident there is no room in our lives for a love for sin, for we are full of love for God.

Therefore, being delivered from the guilt of sin; being delivered from the power of sin, and being delivered from the love for, or desire to sin; we can say with Paul, "Now, being made free from sin, and become the servants of God, we have our fruit unto holiness, and the end, everlasting life."

C. P. Robison.
